

Operations Director – Aviation

This business is a leading engineering maintenance, repair and overhaul (MRO) company, they are looking to bring on board an Operations Director.

This is a fantastic dual function role, covering both strategic, senior management and shop floor aspects.

Position

The role will involve leading a team of roughly 200 people and implementing new operational strategies to increase efficiencies.

This role will give the successful candidate the opportunity to have a real impact within a global organisation. There will be further opportunities across the global group moving forward.

Candidate

The right person for the role will be happy to be hands on, will have strong analysis skills and be very personable, with a proven track record when it comes to managing teams.

You will be familiar with MRO processes and have LEAN/Six-sigma experience.
